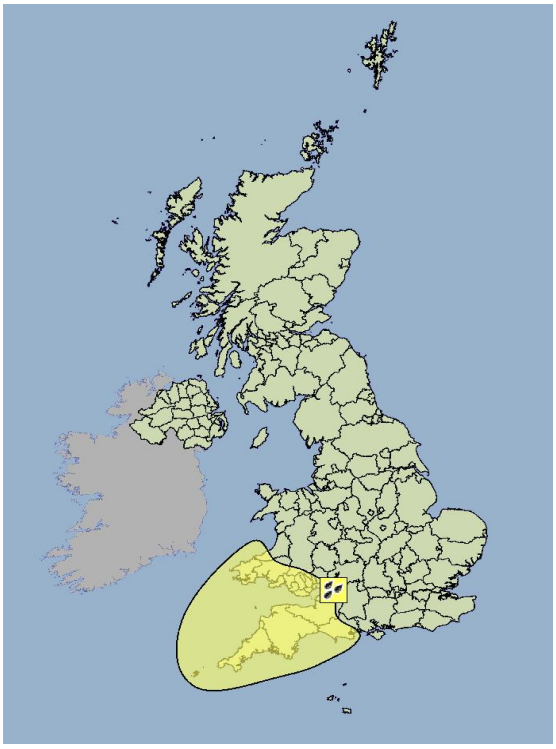
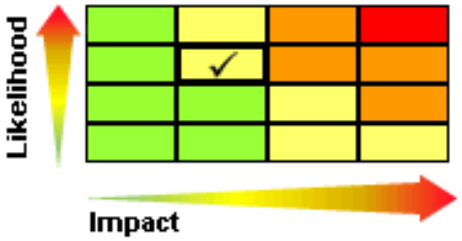
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Although not all areas will see the heavy downpours, some spots are likely to have around 15 mm of rain in less than an hour and up to 30 mm in 2 or 3 hours.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 13:00 on Sat, 16th Sep 2017 until 06:00 on Sun, 17th Sep 2017

Heavy, possibly thundery showers will become prolonged later on Saturday and last into the early hours of Sunday.

Localised surface water flooding on roads may make journey times longer. Flooding of a few homes and businesses is possible.

The worst of the showers should clear from south Wales by around midnight and from southwest England towards the end of the night.
